

Verse 1

Bet you can find a reason that it's not worth it so easily

Then, it's not that hard to push someone away

Safer not to exhaust your heart with what only seems make believe

Such an inclination to build mistrust

But feel it disappearing with your touch

Chorus

Such bravado, fleeting words

Those incantations will be reversed

Telling yourself there's no meant to be

But there is when you're choosing me

When you stop getting in your own way / When you stop wanting to pull out halfway

When you give those words a reason to stay

Verse 2

Weighing all the factors, fighting to find ones working against us

Look to the past, but it's a means to the /an end

The more we try to force it, attempt to see straight, we lose focus

Pins and needles will build up and break through

Then, I see my reason when I look at you

Chorus

Such bravado, fleeting words

Those incantations will be reversed

Telling yourself there's no meant to be

But there is when you're choosing me

When you stop getting in your own way / When you stop wanting to pull out halfway

When you give those words a reason to stay

Bridge

You're navigating through unsettling storms, without knowing the route beforehand.

My heart's been juggled too many times, I lost count.... you better understand

...the reason.