

Verse 1

You act like I need your greatness around to think deep
Like I can't conjure up these lyrics even when I'm in my sleep
But you're not at the center of these ideas I let you keep
I don't need to have your words inside to ever feel complete

Coda

I kept hitting the ground running as I reached out for you
Till you turned me upside down, like only you could do
The mental picture's frame had one too many cracks
Still you tried to keep it going when the train ran off its tracks

Chorus

Said do you like it a little bit risky?
Follow the madness, it will inspire you
I took your hand and the rest was history
Under these demands, we never could pull through

Verse 2

What used to be untouchable has vanished from my mind
You're replicating moments that once left me so defined
Thought you could start over by just leaving me behind
But only I see how this story was meant to be designed

Coda

I kept hitting the ground running as I reached out for you
Till you turned me upside down, like only you could do
The mental picture's frame had one too many cracks
Still you tried to keep it going when the train ran off its tracks

Chorus

Said do you like it a little bit risky?
Follow the madness, it will inspire you
I took your hand and the rest was history
Under these demands, we never could pull through